

How to COIL (Collaborative Online International Learning)

Kumamoto University FD Program for Globalization of Education

ZOOM Webinar

COIL is an online education scheme, which originated from State University of New York as an inter-campus communication system. This has been used recently for collaborative international teaching and learning experiences using ICT tools like ZOOM, Google and Facebook. Last year, we shared COIL's basic information and examples. In this year, 2 speakers who have implemented the scheme will share their experiences more thoroughly with the goal of helping the participants to globalize their courses especially during this challenging pandemic situation.
